In other words, the contractors propose to go on and complete the work under the loss of the recent freshet between the company and contractors.

Mr. Ballard, one of the contractors, was had progressed very favorably, and would have been completed very soon had it not been for the recent flood. That flood came, and it couldn't be helped. He thought if the company could advance this money it would be the means of relieving the contractors and completing the work. If the money was not advanced be didn't see how he could go on with the work.

Judge Meredith moved that a committee of three be appointed to confer with the contractors and see what can be done.

Robinson; if there was divergence in their views it begun with to-day. The Major expressed in vigorous terms his disapprobation of the ukase which comes from Philadelphia for the removal of those who will not obey the one-Man Power. They could drive Mr. Robinson from office, but not into obscurity, for his name would ever shine brilliantly in the galaxy of the best railroadmen. Following flat currency, they were to have a fiat president, and soon they may have a fiat receiver. Major Kelly said that Mr. Robinson stood pledged to obey the stockholders in this matter if he lawfully could, and the Major couldn't understand the determination to remove him. Colonel H. P. Jones eloquently seconded the nomination, and gave many reasons why Mr. Robinson's valuable experience and clear head should be retained in the company's service. He delicately referred also to Mr. Robinson's doing what he regarded as right, though at great sacrifice of personal feeling, and declared that Mr. Rebinson ought to be honored for his manly

They state that the president and Board of Directors were supplanted because they were not in sympathy with the steamboat project. The Board of Public Works will have a meeting in a day or two. It is not doubted that they will instruct the Attorney-General to invoke the aid of the courts; which, it is supposed, will prevent the actual placing of the boats on the line until the General Assembly

SOME SPIRITED BIDDING AND A HANDSOME SUM

According to previous announcement the ale of the voluntary contributions for the relief of the yellow-fever sufferers commenced yesterday at 12 o'clock M. in the store adjoining that of Polk Miller & Co., and attracted a large concourse. The auction opened with the sale of one cord of pine wood at $5; then followed other articles at about their real value. The first excitement occasioned was by the purchase Dr. Withers, J. L. Ross, Schutte, Dodson, Bolton, Timberlake, Yancey, Christian, Dodson the second time, and several parties who simply paid cash without giving names. The total amount received for the bouquet was $15.10. A note signed Charity brought 50 cents.

A chew of tobacco, contributed by one who had nothing else to give, was bought by W. H. Beveridge for 50 cents, and redonated, and bought in turn three times by Doctor Wormley for $1, and Dr. Withers for $1, and finally knocked out to cash for 25 cents-total amount realized, $5.75.
